Hello, my name is Kamil and today I'm going to give you some my opinion about computer games supremacy over actual life.

I disagree with this statement and here is why. We all know that computer games it's just another way of spending freetime. But some people take this stuff seriously and it leads to painful consequences, and I'm not talking about how playing computer games for hours can destroy your health, and cause serious injuries. Moreover people start procrastinating, they quit their jobs, stop studying in schools, universities and etc.

In the conclusion, I'm not a huge fan of computer games and I don't understand people, that spends all of their freetime sitting in front of computers.
