One should read about historical sites <sup>s</sup> before sightseeing.

Nowadays people have many opportunities to travel more often not only to rest, but also to see different historical sites. Travellers choose their destinations by firstly looking the information up about the ~~sites~~ places. But it is necessary for the successful sightseeing?

On the one hand, I consider that finding out some information previously is positive. Firstly, it is beneficial for the tourists as they can look at the parts of a site more thoroughly. Secondly, by knowing the history of the place they can ~~enjoy~~ enjoy sightseeing more. Furthermore pre-reading about the site may also save the travellers' money as they do not have to pay for the guided-tour and can visit ~~the~~ places by themselves.

On the other hand, some tourists are not eager to know everything about the place in advance because they prefer to see ~~and~~ and get the information about it simultaneously to get more impressed. Moreover, some travellers may not want to spend time looking the information up and it is simpler for them to purchase the guided-tour.

Personally, I do not agree with the second ~~opinion~~ <sup>and existing</sup> because I think that it is more convenient to be aware of some facts about a site and travel this way.

To sum up, I agree with the statement. But I believe that this <sup>decision's</sup> should not be a rule as people are free in making their ~~there's~~ decisions. There are many ways to learn new information due to the Internet and people should use it to become more open-minded and receive the maximum from sightseeing.
